LATHAM AND REDPATH RED RASPBERRIES

The introduction of Redpath and Latham Red Raspberries brings a new field of pleasure and profits to all lovers of this very popular fruit.

Both varieties originated in the extreme north and are hardy without requiring any winter protection.

REDPATH: This is a special strain of Latham and we find berries are larger and plants bear more berries in our test fields. Think of it Red Raspberries so large that it only took 5 berries to go across the top of a regular quart berry box. Berries are firm and of excellent quality and sell on markets at top prices. Strong plants inspected and free from all Mosaic. Per doz. $2.00, per 100 $6.00, per 1000 $30.00.

LATHAM. Originated in Minnesota and was the first variety of this new type of Red Raspberry. Berries very large, firm, fine quality, and plants are heavy bearers over a long season. Per dozen plants, $1.50; per 100, $5.00; per 1000, $25.00

Culture. Plants of both Redpath and Latham should be set 4 ft. apart in rows and rows 8 ft. apart for best results. Plants set this spring will bear this summer and fall and be ready for a big crop next season.

Raspberries do well on most all soils and locations. If set on dry ground we advise mulching heavily with straw.

Plenty of time to order no matter how far vegetation is advanced with you. Our trees and plants are dormant and may be safely shipped and planted anytime from now on up to latter part of May.
